In the event the utility/TDSP (transmission and distribution service provider) fails to record complete interval data, your TDSP may estimate usage for missing periods using historical data from your meter, or report interval data for missing intervals as a zero. A multi-day average of recent interval data may be used to estimate usage for missing intervals and used to calculate your monthly bill. When there is a difference between the monthly meter read and monthly total of actual or estimated interval data, the usage will be rebilled upon receipt of the full set of interval data for the billing period where estimation occurred.

Some service locations may be subject to a special charge that is not included in the total average price shown for electric service, such as a charge for underground facilities. For more detail, see the TNMP service tariff for a listing of cities and authorized charges.

POST-TERM/ROLLOVER PRICING IS VOLATILE AND DOES NOT PROTECT AGAINST MARKET FLUCTUATIONS IN THE WHOLESALE ENERGY PRICING OR MARKET BASED ANCILLARY SERVICE COSTS (WHICH ARE NOT CAPPED WITH PRICE LIMITS), WHICH MAY CAUSE YOUR BILL TO BE MULTIPLE TIMES HIGHER IN A MONTH IN WHICH WHOLESALE PRICES OR MARKET BASED PRICES (ARE HIGH).
